Step 1

Set a Monday 8 AM Trigger

One Schedule Trigger. The report is ready before your first coffee.

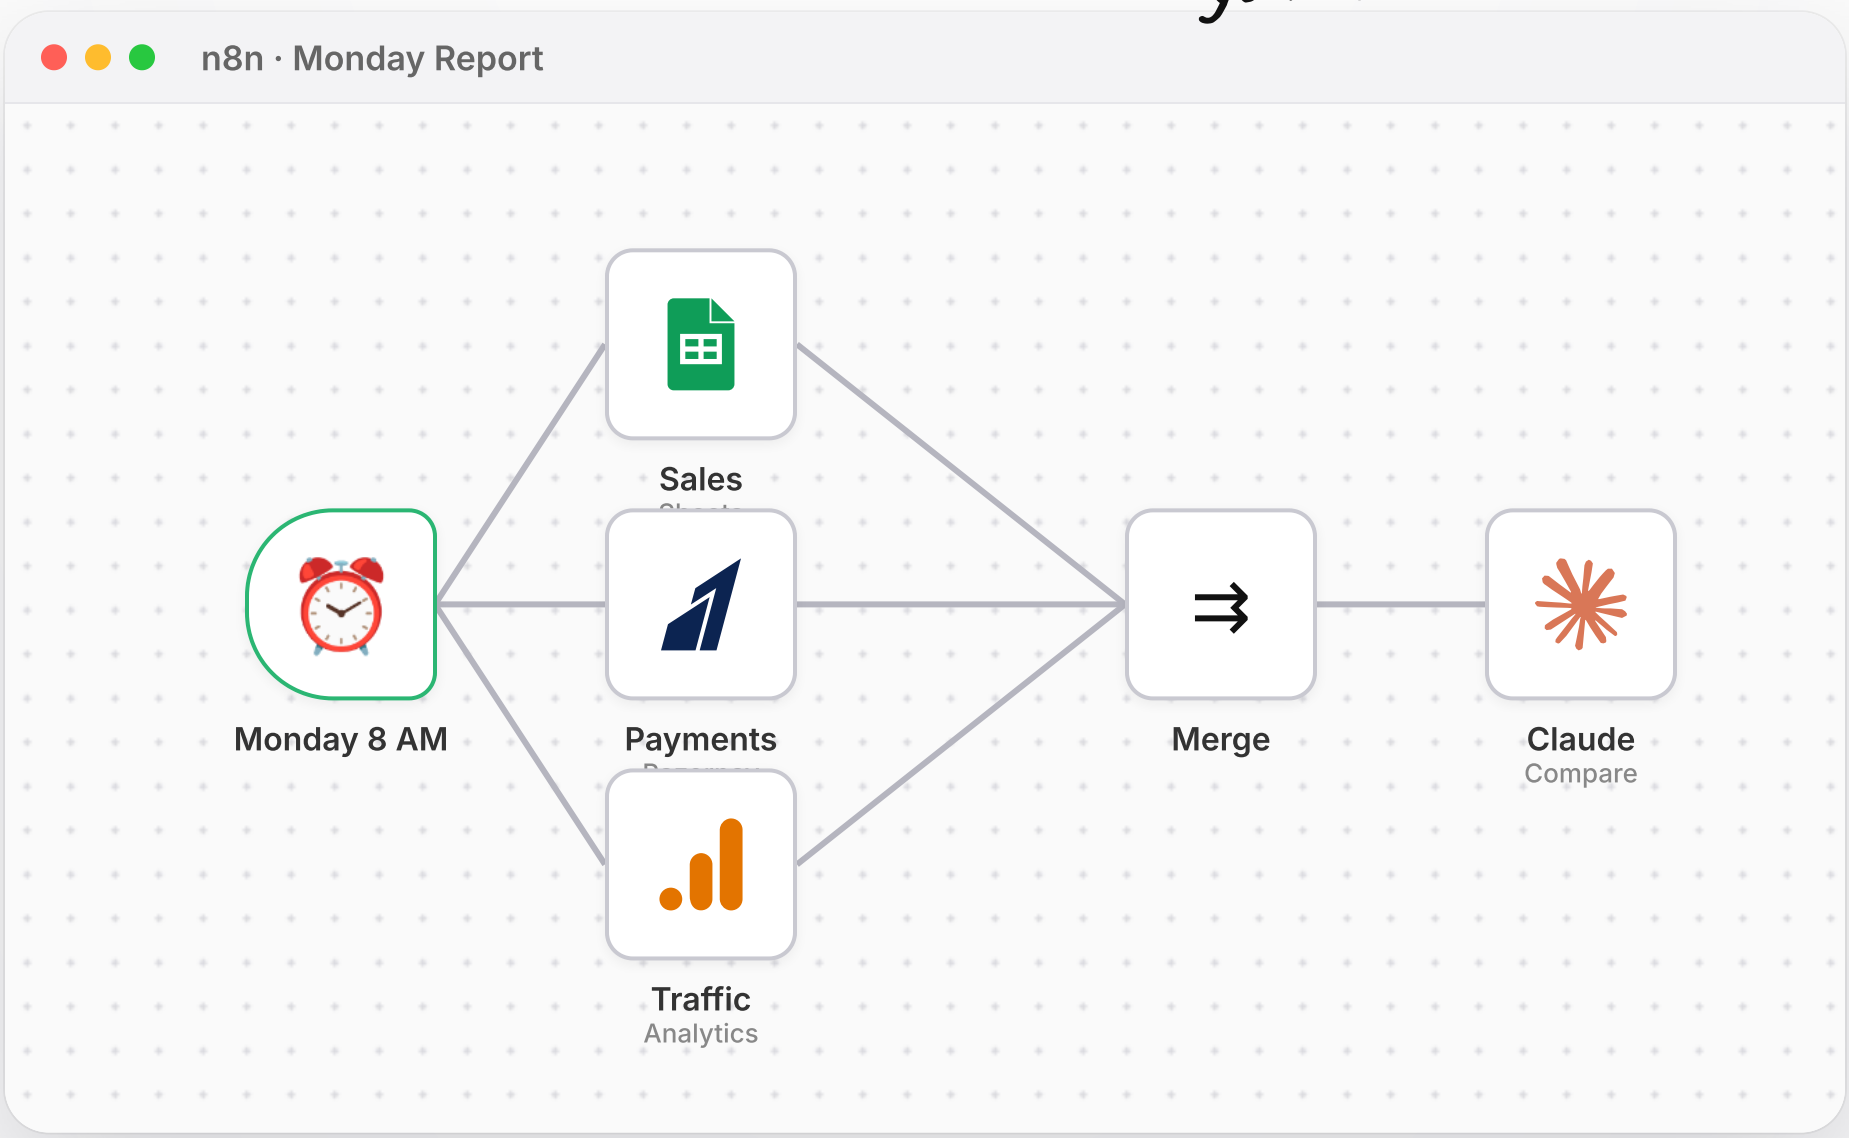

set it once ✓

Step 2

Pull Last Week's Numbers

Sales, payments, traffic. Use whatever you already track, even a sheet.

your tools, not new ones

Step 3

Compare With the Week Before

Numbers alone mean little. Change is what tells you where to look.

example data

Metric	Week before	Last week	Change
Sales	₹2.9L	₹3.4L	+18%
New leads	31	42	+35%
Repeat orders	26%	31%	+5 pts
Refunds	6	12	+100%
Mobile traffic	8,140	7,410	−9%

red = where to look 👀

Step 4

3 Wins, 3 Concerns, 1 Action

A fixed shape makes it fast to read, every single week.

Expression

You are the analyst for a small business.

Compare last week with the week before.
Write:
• 3 wins (with the number)
• 3 concerns (with the number)
• 1 action for this week

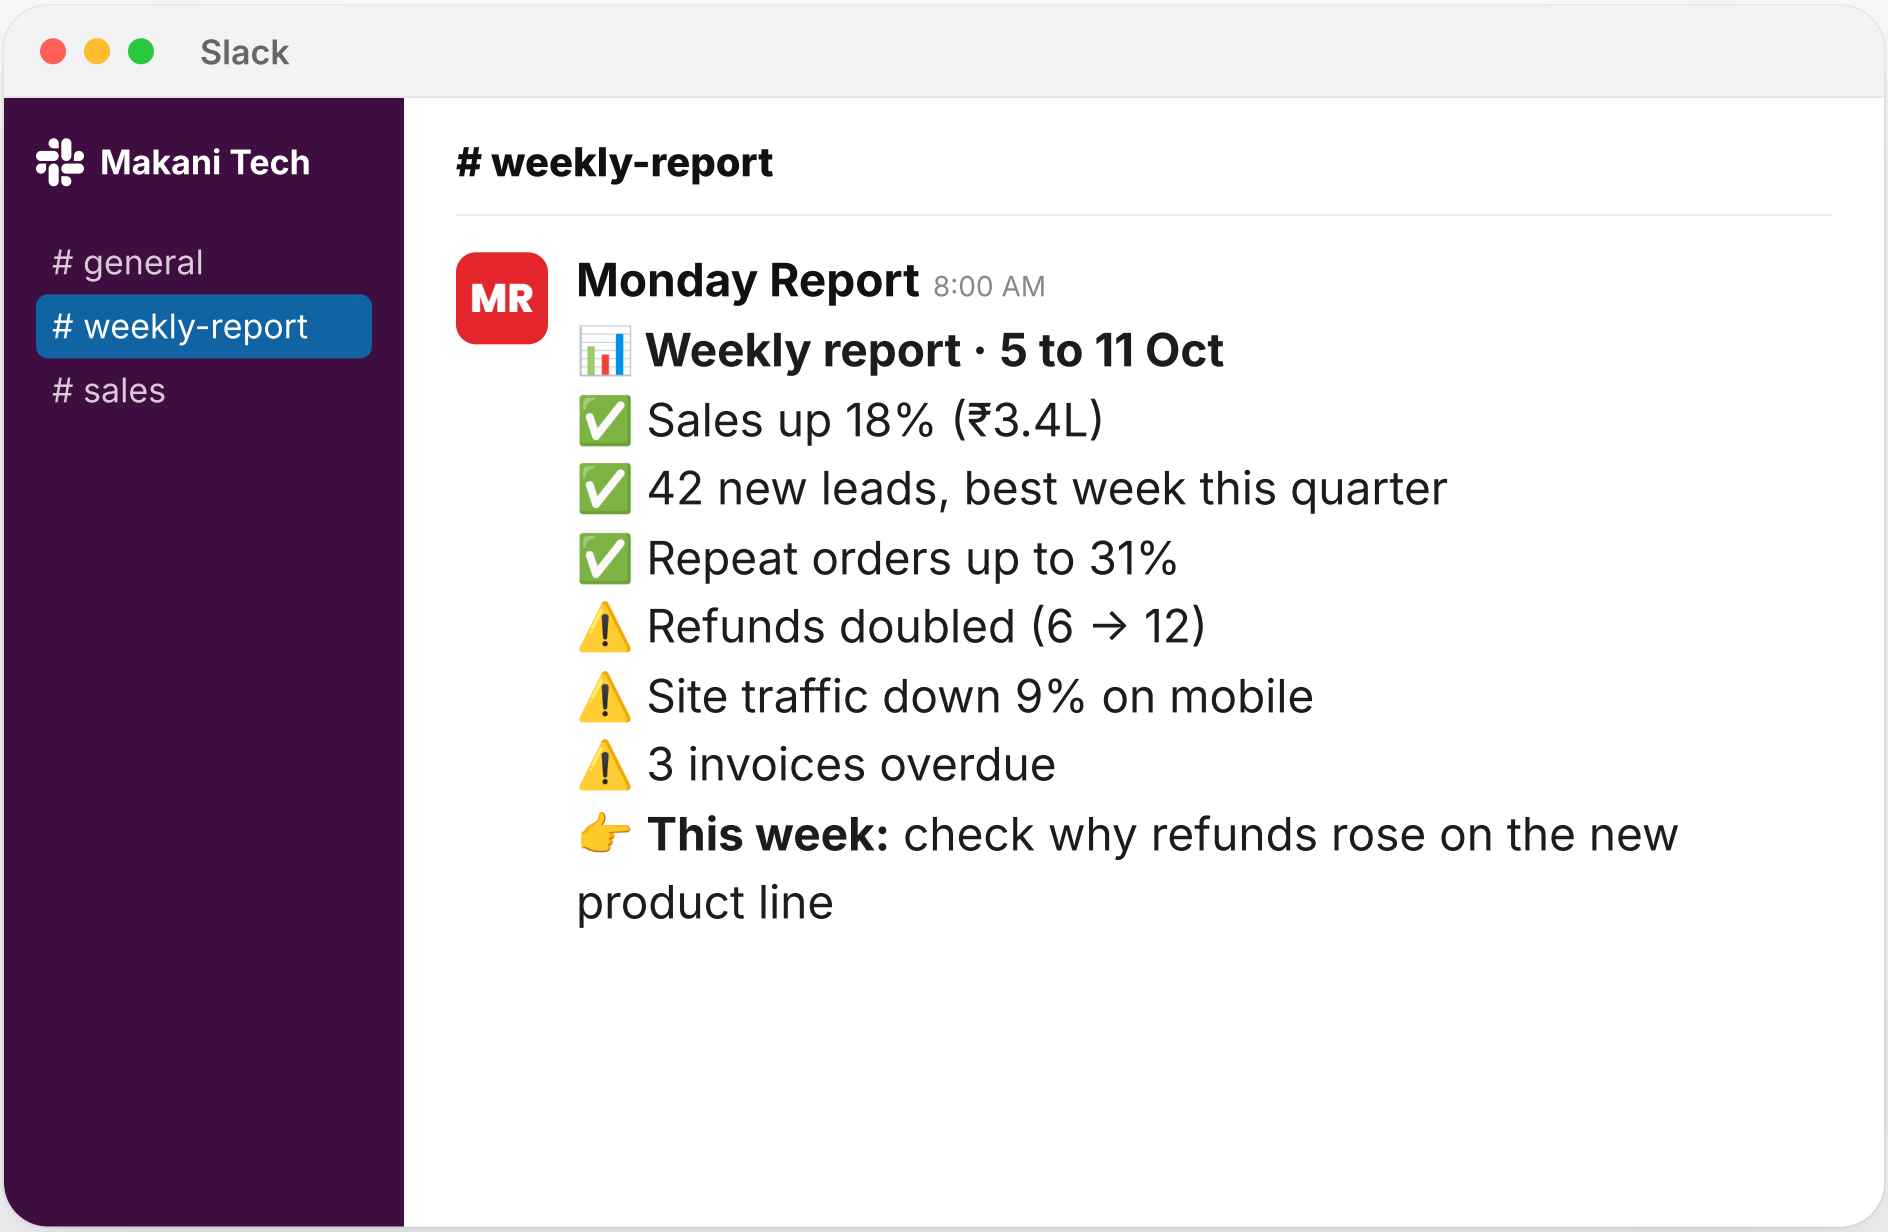

Max 8 lines. Plain words, no jargon.
Never invent a number that is not in the data.

same shape, every week

Step 5

Post It in Slack

The report goes where your team already is. Email works too.

5 minutes with your coffee

Step 6

Ask Follow-Up Questions

Reply in the thread. Claude answers from the same data.
